Set In the charming beachfront urbanisation of El Pirata on the New Golden Mile, these two townhouses are being completely refurbished and will offer a contemporary design and luxury qualities. Pirata is unique in that it was one of the first international villages built alongside the sea in the 1970s. The Costas del Ley (1988s) pushed back the building line 100m from the high tide. This unique village is built on top of the high water mark and the house is 30m from the water. Impossible nowadays. The houses have renovated an old styled beach cottage into a modern residency. The exterior remains in keeping with the character of the village. The reconstruction started in April 2015 and will be completed in July 2015.
